AWS

What It Is

. . . the Associated Women Students is the campus governing body for women students.

Who's In It

. . . every women student on the Maryland campus.

What It Does

. . . sets up and enforces the standards of conduct and residence rules for women students, sponsors cultural and social activities and coordinates women's activities on campus.

Why Have AWS

. . . to give women students an opportunity to govern themselves within their grant of powers from the administration.

Where You Fit In

. . . as an active member, you'll gain experience in democratic self-government, work with the Men's League in planning joint social functions, and promote such activities as the Student-Faculty Coffee Hours, the campus cultural program and freshman orientation.

Note to Daydodgers

. . . daydodgers are just as much a part of AWS as on-campus students. Their help is needed to carry out the AWS program for more social, academic and cultural activities for women students. AWS gives off-campus women an opportunity to meet new friends and become a more active part of the Maryland campus.

How to Get Started

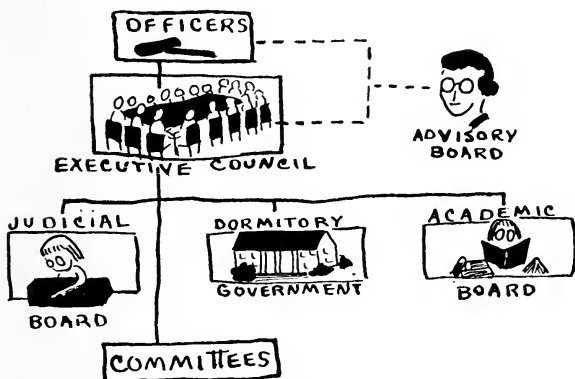

. . . sign up in the armory booth during registration; contact Carmen Guevara, AWS president, in Somerset Hall; or drop by the AWS office any afternoon in the Student Union Building for further information and application blanks for AWS positions.

AWS OFFICERS

*President.....	Carmen Guevara
*Vice-president.....	Dorothy Delaney
*Secretary.....	Ellen Kehoe
*Treasurer.....	Joan Hamburger
†Judicial Board Chairman.....	Nancy Rankin
†Academic Board Chairman.....	Dorothy Williams

*Elected in campus-wide SGA elections.
 †Appointed by AWS Executive Council.

AWS ORGANIZATION

THE JUDICIAL BOARD

Judicial Board has jurisdiction over violations of women's regulations. They can review and set aside decisions of the residence judicial boards and act as an appeals board for students not satisfied with a dormitory or sorority board decision.

The five dormitory judicial chairmen and the four members appointed from either the junior or senior classes by the retiring AWS Executive Council make up the Board's membership. The chairman is elected at a joint meeting of the incoming and retiring board members.

THE AWS EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

The Executive Council is the central, coordinating body of AWS. It passes upon all AWS legislation, approves committee chairmanships recommended by the AWS president, and delegates funds for AWS activities from their SGA appropriation.

The Council's official membership consists of:

—AWS president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer

—Chairman of the Judicial and Academic Boards
—Dormitory presidents

—Representatives from each class, the Daydodgers Association, the International Club, and the Independent Students' Association, the Panhellenic Association, and chairmen of AWS standing committees.

The weekly meetings of the Council, held on Wednesday afternoons at 4 p. m. in their Student Union Building office, are open to all women students. Girls who want to take an active part in AWS activities are invited to attend these meetings.

THE ACADEMIC BOARD

The Academic Board is composed of the dormitory academic chairmen and five non-dormitory women, appointed by the Executive Council, one of whom must be a daydodger. These members carry out the Board's purposes of encouraging scholarship and improving student-faculty relations by arranging special tutoring, working for better study facilities on campus, and by sponsoring the Student-Faculty Coffee Hours. Board members serve as chairmen of the Academic Board committees and must have an overall average of 2.7. Members for the committees are selected from women interested in the work of the Board.

SORORITY RESIDENCE COUNCILS

The house president, judicial chairman, sorority president, and house director of each residence compose the Sorority Residence Councils. Their duties and powers are similar to those of the dormitory councils.

THE RESIDENCE COUNCIL

The Residence Council, the liaison between the women's residences and the AWS Executive Council, suggests and approves all changes in the House Rules for University living units for women. The Council consists of members of the Executive Council, the judicial chairmen of all sorority houses and off-campus residences, and all chairmen of AWS standing and temporary committees. Suggestions for changes in the House Rules may be made by individual living units to the Council through their representatives.

DORMITORY GOVERNMENT

The Dormitory Councils are the administrative bodies for on-campus residences for women. Each dorm council is made up of the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, the judicial, academic, orientation and social chairmen and four class representatives of that dorm. The house director serves as the council advisor.

Each council supervises the conduct and scholarship within its dormitory and promotes extra-curricular activities among its students.

The officers and class representatives are elected by a majority vote of the residents. The freshman representative is elected in the fall one month after the beginning of school. The chairman and members of the committees are appointed by a committee of the new officers, the incoming and retiring presidents, and the house director from the applications of interested students.

THE ADVISORY BOARD

The members of the Dean of Women's staff constitute the AWS Advisory Board.

AWS COMMITTEES

Most of the work of the AWS is carried out through its committees. To make its program a valuable and functional part of campus life, AWS needs interested students to become a part of its organization. Its wide range of activities demands a wider range of talents—including everything from a knowledge of parliamentary law to the ability to draw, write, and act as hostesses and party organizers. Some of the major AWS committees open to interested students are:

Cultural Committee

. . . publicizes local cultural events and obtains special student rates and extended late leaves for such functions.

Social Committee

. . . works with the Men's League to coordinate inter-dormitory parties and desserts and is in charge of dormitory teas for special days (Homecoming, Dad's Day).

Orientation Committee

. . . supervises the "big sister" program in the dormitories, writes letters of welcome to incoming students, and helps new students get acquainted with the campus.

Convention Committee

. . . plans the area conventions which provide neighboring colleges an opportunity to discuss with us common student government problems.

Publicity and Publications Committee

. . . publicizes the activities of AWS, informs students of changes in AWS regulations, and publishes the AWS handbook.

Constitution Committee

. . . is in charge of revising the constitution and by-laws of AWS to keep them up to date.
